FATHER’S DAY

Getting home late, after a very hectic day at the office, dad had just settled down in his easy chair, newspaper in one hand and a cool glass of tea in the other, when his four-year-old came down the hall and pounced in his lap. He had a thousand questions, but all dad wanted was to be left alone. "Daddy," he demanded, "what did you do today?" "Nothing," came the curt reply from dad. Undaunted, the fellow asked, "But daddy, how did you know when you were done?"

Children need their fathers! Please do not misunderstand. I am not saying fathers are more important than mothers. Both are important! But, it seems to me that many fathers do not appreciate the tremendous trust they have been given. "Children are an heritage of the Lord" (Psalm 127:3).

Child rearing was intended to be a joint venture. Fathers, as well as mothers, have a vital part to play. It is fathers who are called upon to "bring their children up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord" (Ephesians 6:4). Being a father entails much more than seeing that the bills are paid and that there is food on the table. It means being there to answer their questions, remove their fears, and ease their pain. It means giving yourself!

I LOVED YOU ENOUGH

Some day when my children are old enough to understand the logic that motivates a parent, I will tell them these things:

I loved you enough to ask where you were going, with whom, and what time you would be home.

I loved you enough to insist that you save your money and buy a bike for yourself even though we could afford to buy one for you.

I loved you enough to be silent and let you discover that your new best friend was a creep.

I loved you enough to make you take a Milky Way back to the drugstore (with a bite out of it) and tell the clerk, "I stole this yesterday, and I want to pay for it."

I loved you enough to stand over you for two hours while you cleaned your room, a job that would have taken me fifteen minutes.

I loved you enough to let you see anger, disappointment, and tears in my eyes. Children must learn that their parents are not perfect.

I loved you enough to let you assume the responsibility for your actions even when the penalties were so harsh they almost broke my heart.

But most of all, I loved you enough to say no when I knew you would hate me for it. Those were the most difficult battles of all. I am glad I won them, because in the end you won something, too.

Don't get too busy to be a father. If asked the two most important things a father should do for his children, I think I would answer as follows. First, the most important thing a man can do for his children is to love their mother. Second, just be there when they need you, and point them to God. It's not too late to start.

DON'T SETTLE FOR AVERAGE

If a man were to stand with one hand on a hot stove and one hand in a freezer, some statistician would assert that, on average, he's comfortable.

This reminds me of some who seem to feel that they can come to church services on Sunday and yet live like the devil during the week. They say that they are, on the average, pretty good people.

Such a person cannot be comfortable any more than the man with one of his hands on the stove and the other in a freezer. He is "a doubleminded man, unstable in all his ways" (James 1:8). He has only enough religion to be miserable, but not enough to go to heaven.

Jesus does not want average; average nauseates Him. He will vomit out of His mouth those who are lukewarm (Revelation 3:15-16).

Let us all get all the way on the Lord's side now, lest we spend eternity with the evil.

RAMBLINGS

--By Roger

Our Summer Series speaker this Wednesday evening will be Terry Jones. Terry preaches for the church in Pennsboro, WV. His assignment is the Old Testament prophet Daniel. Terry has been with us on numerous occasions.

Thanks to Kurt Harrison for teaching our Sunday morning adult class today. Next Sunday Harry Ogletree will be our teacher and he will be using Luke 11:1-13 as the basis of his lesson on prayer.

Again, my special thanks to Michael Morgan for filling in for me last Sunday. I am happy to be back with you today.

Happy Father's Day to all the fathers with us this morning. As I did for Mother's Day, I tried to present a message that would be helpful to the fathers in our midst, but also beneficial to all who are present. You will have to be the judge on whether I succeeded in doing that, but that was my intent.

Junior Week (ages 8-13) of Ohio Valley Christian Youth Camp begins today at Camp Barbe in Elizabeth, WV. The West Virginia School of Preaching in Moundsville, WV is hosting a Future Preacher Training Camp June 24-26. The Fishinger Road congregation in Columbus is hosting a Christian Leadership Camp July 15-20. Information is available on the bulletin board in the foyer regarding all three camps.

I hope you have an enjoyable afternoon, and I will look forward to seeing you again at 5:00 for our evening service.
